From the Desk of the Pastor

Dear Parishioners,

The week of June 27th the priests of the archdiocese gathered for a Convocation, which we do every three years. There were several fine presentations, including Archbishop John Vlazny of Portland (he is Val Vlazny's cousin and was my Latin teacher), Fr. Michael Hehir from Orange, California and Matthew Kelly from Australia. I'm sure some of you have come across Kelly's book, Rediscovering Catholicism, which some parishes around the country have given away at Christmas. I had heard of that effort but did not really know much more than that.

Kelly gave some interesting data-based statistics. He says in any given parish 6.8% volunteer 80% of the time. (I bet many of you could have told him that.) He also claims 6.8% give 80% of the monetary contributions. (I was a little surprised by that, but not totally. The few have long paid for the many.) For discussion purposes he referred to these groups of people as 'the 7%'. And he asked the rhetorical question, "What makes the 7% different from everyone else? What do they have that the rest do not?"

He went on to describe the Four Signs of Dynamic Catholics as being

- Deliberate Pray-ers
- Continuous learners
- Generous Hearts
- Evangelization

He described the first dynamic as people who make a daily commitment to a prayer routine. It's more than just praying while you're driving or while you are doing some other task. It's those people who set aside the same time, ideally the same place, each day to focus on prayer, whatever form it may take. They made a commitment to the routine of prayer. He spoke about these people as having a strategic plan for their best days to begin.

The 'continuous learners' are readers, who study and are open to growing, who hunger for more. Kelly claims that 1% of Catholics read a Catholic book in 2007. (That was part of the research behind his company distributing the book at Christmas.) Those with 'generous hearts' don't stop with time, talent and treasure. They are generous lovers, generous in their appreciation, generous in their relationships. (Kelly remarked we Catholics tend to be stingy.)

The fourth sign of dynamic Catholics is that they bring the love of God into others' lives. The church word for that is 'evangelization'. When Kelly asked the readers where the book they read was now, the response most often was they had given it to someone else to read. They shared their enthusiasm for God with others.

Four signs. Makes it sound rather simple. Kelly says we are 'hypnotized by complexity'. What grade do you give yourself for each of the four signs of how dynamic a Catholic you are? If you want to make changes, Kelly would encourage you to think small with a big vision. What do you want to get done in the next ten years? Then try and figure out what the smallest change you can make is. The goal, Kelly says, is 'continuous incremental improvement'.

He gave a fascinating challenge for those who are married. He said husbands and wives need to choose one intentional act of love for the other each day. It needs to be intentional (as opposed to accidental) but it also need only be one thing. One loving thing each day. Intentionally. Imagine what that can give to your marriage.

And then he drew an even more fascinating implication: it takes holy, loving marriages to give holy, loving priests. Imagine what that can do for our Church.

Peace,
Fr. David

Thank You From Our Lady of Perpetual Help Catholic Church

Dear Friends of OLPH and St. Boniface,

Thank you very much for your faithful monthly “sharing” of your treasure with us. We keep you in our prayers, giving thanks for the gift you are to us.

We give thanks to God for a new roof on our parish hall, finally completed shortly after Easter. There were anxious moments this past winter and through spring as snow kept piling up and heavy rains pounded on the old roof. Parts began to give way, but God must have sent several angels to hold it up! While we are still trying to replace some of the money we paid for the roof, we will be forever grateful for the contributions we received for this project, most especially for the memorial donations given for this purpose in honor of our friend, Philip Dunn.

We look forward to the sharing of time and talent that the Crossroads volunteers will bring at the end of July/beginning of August.

May God continue to bless each of you in ways you most need at this time.

Gratefully,
Sr. Margie

Three Secrets to Power Resumes

INTERFAITH CAREER NETWORK invites you to join us on Thursday, July 21 at 7:00 pm for an interesting and powerful presentation regarding how to best write your cover letter and resume. In a job search, they speak for you. They must communicate your capabilities, experience and knowledge in just 45 seconds! Unfortunately too many of us do not know the key secrets to a successful cover letter or resume. This program will focus on three important issues: (1) how to power up your cover letter, (2) verbify your cover letter and resume, (3) lay them out for impact. Our speaker, Karolus Smejda has consulted with corporations, government, privately-held firms and professional partnerships to improve written communication. Currently, Karolus teaches business writing at Loyola University. This program is open to all and there is no charge to attend. We look forward to seeing you at St. Cletus, 700 W. 55th Street in La Grange. Please use the flagpole entrance.

Interfaith Career Network (ICN) offers job support through various programs throughout the month. For further information, please visit our website at www.interfaithcareernetwork.org

Summer Prayer

Father, Creator of all, thank You for summer!

Thank you for the warmth of the sun and the increased daylight.

Thank You for the beauty I see all around me and for the opportunity to be outside and enjoy Your creation.

Thank You for the increased time I have to be with my friends and family, and for the more casual pace of the summer season.

Draw me closer to You this summer.

Teach me how I can pray no matter where I am or what I am doing.

Warm my soul with the awareness of Your presence and light my path with Your Word and Counsel.

As I enjoy Your creation, create in me a pure heart and a hunger and a thirst for You.

Amen

The Internal Battle for our Souls

Two contraries cannot co-exist inside the same subject. Aristotle wrote that and it seems to say the obvious, something can't be light and dark at the same time.

However, in terms of what's happening inside our souls it seems that contraries can indeed co-exist inside the same subject. At any given moment, inside us, we are a mixture of light and darkness, sincerity and hypocrisy, selflessness and selfishness, virtue and vice, grace and sin, saint and sinner. As Henri Nouwen used to say: We want to be great saints, but we also don't want to miss out on all the sensations that sinners experience. And so our lives aren't simple.

We live with both light and darkness side us and for long periods of time, it seems, contraries do co-exist inside us. Our souls are a battleground where selflessness and selfishness, virtue and sin, vie for dominance. But eventually one or the other will begin to dominate and work at weeding out the other. That's why John of the Cross picks up this philosophical axiom and uses it to teach a key lesson about coming to purity of heart and purity of intention in our lives. Because contraries cannot co-exist inside us, there's something vital we need to do. What?

We need to pray regularly. Contraries cannot co-exist in us so if we sustain genuine prayer in our lives eventually sincerity will weed out insincerity, selflessness will weed out selfishness, and grace will weed out sin. If we sustain genuine prayer we will never, long-term, fall into moral rationalization. If we sustain genuine prayer in our lives we will never grow so blind to our own sin that we will begin to have morally exempt areas in our lives. Being faithful to prayer will ensure that we will never, long-range, live double lives because what prayer brings into our lives, a genuine presence of God, will not peacefully co-exist with selfishness, sin, rationalization, self-delusion, and hypocrisy. Simply put, at some point in our lives, we will either stop praying or stop our bad behavior. We won't be able to live with both. Our biggest danger then is to stop praying.

And this advice is eminently practical: We cannot always control how we feel about things. We cannot always control how we will be tempted. And none of us has the strength to never fall into sin. Our incapacity to fully actualize ourselves morally leaves us always short of full sanctity. There are things beyond us.

But there is something that we can control, something beyond the wild horses of emotion and temptation. We are beset by many things, but we can willfully, deliberately, with discipline and resolve, show up regularly to pray. We can make private prayer a regular discipline in our lives. We can commit ourselves to the habit of private prayer. And, if we do that, irrespective of the fact that we will have to work through long periods of dryness and boredom, eventually what that prayer brings into our lives will weed out our bad habits, rationalization, and sins. Two contraries cannot co-exist inside the same subject. Eventually we will either stop praying or we will give up our sin and rationalization. Nobody can be praying genuinely on a regular basis and be blind to his or her own sinfulness.

Our task then is to sustain private prayer as a habit in our lives, even if we have neither the insight nor the courage to see and address all the double-standards and moral blind-spots in our lives. What comes into our lives through prayer, often more imperceptible than visible, will eventually weed out ("cauterize", in John of the Cross' words) both our sin and our rationalizations about it.

This is akin to what Ronald Knox once taught about the Eucharist. For him, the Eucharist is the singular, vital, sustaining ritual within Christian life. Why? Because Knox believed that, as Christians, we have never really lived up to what Christ asked of us. We have never really loved our enemies, turned the other cheek, blessed those who cursed us, lived fully just lives, or forgiven those who hurt us. But we have been, he submits, faithful to Christ in one major way: We have been faithful in celebrating the Eucharist, to that one command.

Just before he left us, Jesus gave us the Eucharist and asked us to continue celebrating it until he returned. For two thousand years, awaiting that return, we've been faithful in doing that, no matter how unfaithful we have been in other ways. We have continued to celebrate the Eucharist and, in the end, more than anything else, that has been the one thing that has called us back, again and again, to fidelity.

The habit of private prayer will do the same thing for us. Since two contraries cannot co-exist inside the same subject, eventually either we will stop praying or we will stop sinning and rationalizing. The greatest moral danger in our lives is that we stop praying!
